Just a few of our clients: John Lewis - The Department of Education funded a study to identify which accessibility standards (WAI guidelines) are best used and most effective when providing accessible information for the education sector. Our experts then provided advice for the Department in implementing accessible web design and development.Q: Copy/Paste value into Word document from Excel I have to input values into a word document. The input values come from an Excel worksheet. So far I have found that the standard method is to use values from the Excel document to enter into the text boxes of the Word document. This is what I do: Go to the Word document Right click on the text box and select paste special Choose values This works for single cell values, but when multiple cells are selected and then pasted into the Word document, I have to delete all the other values. This is very inconvenient. Is there a better way to do this? A: You can use the Worksheet.CopyPicture Method to copy only the cells you want (instead of the whole worksheet). Then you can select the textbox in the Word document where you want to paste. Finally, you can use the Worksheet.PasteSpecial Method to paste the picture. Example: Sub PasteValues() Dim rng As Range Set rng = ThisWorkbook.Worksheets("Sheet1").Range("A1:C1") rng.CopyPicture ThisWorkbook.Worksheets("Sheet2").Range("A1").PasteSpecial End Sub If you select multiple cells, you can use the Selection.Copy 82157476af
